WIN ACCEPTS OFFICE FROM BLANCO

Will Take His Place as a Member of the Cuban Cabinet.

WHAT SURPRISE TO CUBANS

Position Was Announced Yesterday by Senator Govin.

HE DECLINES TO DISCUSS THE MATTER

Cubans in Atlanta Say They Have Heard Him Criticize Galvez, Montoro and Others.

Senator Antonio Govin will be secretary of the interior in the new Cuban cabinet. This announcement was made by the senator himself yesterday morning.

In the article printed in The Constitution of yesterday morning the previous record of Senator Govin was fully discussed and the opinions which he has expressed since his arrival in Atlanta were given in full. These opinions were well known to the entire Cuban government, and the fact that he had been so candidly and honestly criticized by an enemy of the Cuban cause, was a word of truth in the strong expressions ascribed to him. All that is quite false.

"I have been told that I am an automaton. I am only an honest man, true to his country."

"Please to make right. Yours respectfully,"

ANTONIO GOVIN.

Here is what Senator Govin Says.

Yesterday morning the following letter was received from Senator Govin:

"Atlanta, Ga., December 31, 1897. To the Editor of The Atlanta Constitution: Dear Sir: Your paper has been very kindly informed. I have accepted the office of a member of the new Cuban cabinet. The article published today in your paper about me has been certainly suggested by an enemy of the Cuban cause. I am only an honest man, true to his country."

How Govin's Views Were Obtained.

So, after all, Cuban confidence in Senator Govin, as far as the Atlanta colony represents it, was shaken, and during the day his step was discussed eagerly wherever a couple of Cubans chanced to meet. The letter printed above is exceedingly diplomatic when it is analyzed, and simply faults with some "strong expressions" which had been attributed to him. It is a disclaimer of the compliment of being a "great Cuban" due to his modesty and must be allowed to pass, but insofar as his letter would indicate that the opinions printed as his had not been expressed by him is concerned, there must be entered a demurrer.

The Constitution of yesterday morning reached Senator Govin through its regular reporter, and when this could not be done it appealed to a Cuban gentleman who was in full possession of Senator Govin's views. This gentleman readily undertook the work of furnishing Senator Govin's views. Having the fullest confidence in his integrity, knowing him to be a gentleman of worth and character, but not a politician, his report of Senator Govin's opinions expressed and published, as to the truth of that report it must be left to the Cubans now in the city, with whom Senator Govin has been on terms of fraternity ever since his arrival. They have witnessed his going out and coming in. He has talked to them at different times and always in such a way as to lead them to accept him as one of themselves. Let them be the jury to read and compare it with their recollection of what they have heard him say.

There is Corroboration.

But the gentleman who furnished this interview is not without corroboration from others, who have heard Senator Govin express the ideas printed in The Constitution, and which he had expressed without hesitation. One of these gentlemen, Senator Miguel Carrion, a lawyer of good standing at the Havana bar, a writer of ability who now has a book on Cuba running through the press, confessed that he was not surprised at the sudden change of Senator Govin.

A significant fact was brought in a discussion which was held between a number of Cubans who met last night. It was pointed out that Senator Govin's views were too well established to be debated, but that the Spanish government, fearing his influence on the side of the revolution, made every effort to win him over. For instance, the formation of this cabinet was begun over two weeks ago. Senator Govin was notified promptly, of course. The body was to be sworn in yesterday and assume its functions in Havana today. How is it, then, that Senator Govin is today in Atlanta instead of being in Havana at his post of duty? The question is answered very readily by the fact that Senator Govin, notwithstanding his diplomatic words to the contrary, has been drafted into the cabinet. There is no doubt but that, true to his expressed convictions, he declined the offer, and in this manner made no preparations whatever to return to Cuba and to be at the post of duty which had been set aside for him. But General Blanco, finding it difficult to perfect his cabinet with men of character, insisted upon Govin's acceptance, and it was in the evening of the 9th, just like the drawing of an eye tooth, that Govin consented.

This accounts for the facts that he is still here instead of being in Havana. Although Senator Govin has not a single supporter in his step in the Atlanta colony, so far as known, all expressions for him are those of pity and not of hatred. It is admitted that he has done Cuba great service in time past by educating Cuban opinion up to the point where it would be ready for the change from Spain.

"The fact is," said one Cuban gentleman, "that while Senator Govin says he was always and always will be an 'automaton,' he was in reality simply of the kind, but here instead of being in Havana."

It was said last night that a meeting of Cubans would be held some time today or tonight, at which some more formal action would be taken. Certain it is that the sons of the eventful island are worked up, and that Senator Govin is very lonely so far as Cuban sympathy is concerned.

In the meantime The Constitution wishes the senior apy New Year.

Dawson Is By Without Liquor for a Good While.

Dawson, a., December 31.—(Special.)—Tomorrow, the first time in his history, Dawson will experience the sensation of being a "wet" town, and tonight the boys are filling their demijohns and canteens with encephalitis to ride them over the drought, but how long will it last no one seems to decide definitely.

It will be remembered that the recent legislature passed a bill prohibiting the sale of liquor in Terrell county except by the dispensary plan. The law was to go into effect tomorrow, and the boys are filling their demijohns and canteens with encephalitis to ride them over the drought, but how long will it last no one seems to decide definitely.

started out with a pack of faithful dogs on the trail of the wolf. For three long hours he kept in front of the hounds and outwitted the bloodthirsty hunters. Hither and thither through the forests of Copenhill ran the hunted animal.

At last when he felt his strength giving out he determined to resort to strategy. In the distance he saw the home of Judge Candler and he determined to turn to the strong arm of the law for protection. As he dodged in and out among the underbrush from the pursuing hounds the idea occurred to the wolf that if he could only get an injunction to stay the dogs of the hunt, he might escape.

To this Alderman Hull took exception, and about 6 o'clock this evening met Major Karow in front of the cotton exchange. He asked him if it was true that he had made such a statement.

Major Karow said he had nothing to say about the matter, and that he was not a member of the police commission.

NEGRO ATTACKS MCALLEN MARSH

The Former Atlantic Narrowly Escapes with His Life.

Rome, Ga., December 31.—(Special.)—At Cave Springs, ten miles below Rome, McAllen B. Marsh, was assaulted by a negro hostler and coachman, Squire Merriweather.

The negro had just returned from Rome on an errand for Mr. Marsh and was drunk. The buggy and horse had been abused as a result of the negro's dissipation.

Mr. Marsh expressed his severity for his conduct. The negro drew a pistol and began snapping it in the face of his employer, and with multiplied threats threatened to kill him and his wife and to burn the house.

Mr. Marsh was entirely unarmed, the negro having previously stolen his pistol and ammunition, of which fact he insolently informed Mr. Marsh during the trade. Seeing that his pistol would not shoot, the negro tried to use it as a club and was only prevented from so doing by his drunken condition and the strong arm of Mr. Marsh. The negro was severely overpowered and disarmed, after which he was marched into the town and placed in the hands of an officer. The negro was brought to Rome and placed in jail for safe-keeping.

KAROW SPILLS HULL'S BLOOD.

Police Commissioner and Alderman in Savannah Fight.

Savannah, Ga., December 31.—(Special.)—The contest over the resolutions protesting against the appointment of negroes to federal office, led to a serious difficulty today between Major Edward Karow, chairman of the police commission, who is said to have been the author of the cotton exchange resolution calling on the city to accept the negroes, and the city council.

To this Alderman Hull took exception, and about 6 o'clock this evening met Major Karow in front of the cotton exchange. He asked him if it was true that he had made such a statement.

Major Karow said he had nothing to say about the matter, and that he was not a member of the police commission.

Major Karow was quoted this morning as saying that in refusing to protect against the appointment of negroes to federal office, led to a serious difficulty today between Major Edward Karow, chairman of the police commission, who is said to have been the author of the cotton exchange resolution calling on the city to accept the negroes, and the city council.

Strong Statements--Sensational Sale

As these words run off the pen snow is in the air and a colossal bulk of phenomenal values is in the store. Our plan of celebrating the New Year is liberal to the verge of magnificence. The salient and dominant elements of this immense trade movement must be carefully considered to be thoroughly appreciated. A series of vital features are active that a first blush may not be manifest to the casual reader. Follow the advertising and gain money-saving information. . . .

Tremendous Reductions on Seasonable Clothing

The first real cold weather of the Winter that promises to be protracted has just arrived; our various stocks are thick with broken lots that the heavy holiday buying created; and to render perfect conditions still more ideal, we have subjected the goods to price-cuts that have never before been equaled. The man who needs Clothing and relegates the foregoing claim to the limbo of exaggeration is reckless.

Exit . . . 1897
Enter . . . 1898

Our resolves for the New Year are strenuous and intense. We refer to them with pride and confidence. Thirty-three years of retailing in Atlanta entitle us to peculiar precedence. You've always found us in the forefront of progress. Everybody understands that no one undersells us. That's not half emphatic enough. As manufacturers we avoid the middlemen's profits and save wearers from 20 to 35 per cent. That's the usual thing here. On special occasions, like the present, we save 'em much more.

The bargains today are too numerous, too vast in scope and enormous in variety to print in detail.

The opposite hints must suffice.

Broken Prices
on Broken Lots

The person who scorns "broken lots" is a novice--a tyro unskilled in the art of choosing--minus judgment and discrimination. The best, finest, most fashionable and nobbiest lines are the ones that reach the "broken lot" stage earliest. It's an honor, not a disparagement or indignity for a Suit or Overcoat to be thus classed.

If a line of garments is of indifferent excellence, gives just cause for detraction, reproach or adverse criticism it will not easily be sold down to the "broken lot" point. We want to make it clear and lucid that the bargains today include the richest styles and qualities ever shown beneath this roof.

All who have had experience appreciate the difficulty of adjusting a stupendous stock that is full of lots almost depleted. To overcome this trouble and distribute the left-overs of our most popular lines, we are willing to sacrifice all profits and in many cases part of the cost.

It Is Unwisdom To Underrate Our Offerings

Various, as yet, unprinted causes combine to stimulate our energies in the conduct of this sale. We'll begin our annual inventory the middle of this month. Our store-rooms and our factory are overwhelmed with stock, and the perennial inspiration never to yield to any tendency of dull times, help these values on to you. We are confident you'll respond cordially and heartily to this announcement. It's to your interest to do so.

HOW THE COTTON CROP LOOKS TODAY

Five Months of the Season Closed Yesterday.

RECEIPTS HAVE BEEN HEAVY
Records at the Ports Show Heavy Increase.

THE CROP WAS RAPIDLY MARKETING
Interesting Retrospect and Forecast of the Cotton Situation in the South.

The first five months of the cotton season of 1897-98 closed yesterday. Usually at the end of December it is possible to come to an almost definite conclusion as to the size of the crop that is being marketed, but this year the trade is considerably mixed, the estimates ranging from 9,500,000 to 11,000,000 bales.

Receipts have been enormous, both at the ports and interior towns--on one or two occasions breaking all previous records. The receipts at the ports one day aggregated 1,000,000, against 91,000 the best previous day's arrivals.

Two opinions are advanced as to the heavy receipts from the ports. One is that the crop of 1897-98 will be a record. The other is that the present crop has been marketed more rapidly than any previous one.

People who hold the latter view point to the fact that the receipts at the ports are not only heavy but also steady. They claim that the cotton is being marketed more rapidly than in any previous year. They also point to the fact that the receipts at the ports are not only heavy but also steady.

cotton market, and the trade here is highly gratified at the business transacted so far this season, having handled 175,296 bales since the 1st of September to December 31st, against 117,128 for the same time last year.

Local prices have averaged higher than in former years, the facilities for handling having been reduced to a minimum, which some of the factors here claim has caused the increase in receipts.

MAIL SERVICE EXAMINATION.
Fifty-Five Applicants Were Examined Yesterday.

The second day's civil service examination was held at the custom house yesterday. Fifty-five men tried for places with the government and all day long they worked at the questions and tests given them.

The examination yesterday was for positions in the railway mail service and only men were eligible. Twenty-one of the applicants were negroes. Every applicant passed the physical examination, which is to determine whether an applicant measures up to the physical requirements of the position or not. These are that a man shall be five feet and four inches and shall weigh 125 pounds. One of the men weighed 128 pounds and was but five feet four and a half inches high, thus barely passing the physical examination.

The examination consisted of reading badly written addresses and in answering geographical questions. The examination for the position of railway mail clerk is one of the hardest under the civil service.

Mr. W. L. Thompson, who conducted the examination, left last night for Washington.
